Wireless Local Number Portability (WLNP)

WLNP enables mobile phone users to “port” their existing cell phone numbers between wireless carriers. When a user requests an existing number to be ported over to Nextel service from a different carrier, the process may take several hours to several days. The user will be assigned a “Temporary” Personal Telephone Number (PTN) until the port-in process of the “Requested” or “Permanent” PTN is complete. It is best practice to use your “Requested/Permanent” PTN when registering on Nextel.com. If you choose to register your “Temp” PTN, there are several impacts to consider:

Your “Requested” PTN will be registered and displayed as your phone number and NOT your “Temporary” PTN. At the end of the registration process, you will receive a confirmation page describing the status of your “Port-in” request.

If you are registering a temporary number while your permanent number is being transferred to a Nextel account, a validation occurs to determine whether the permanent number is a valid number. If successful, you will receive a confirmation notice.

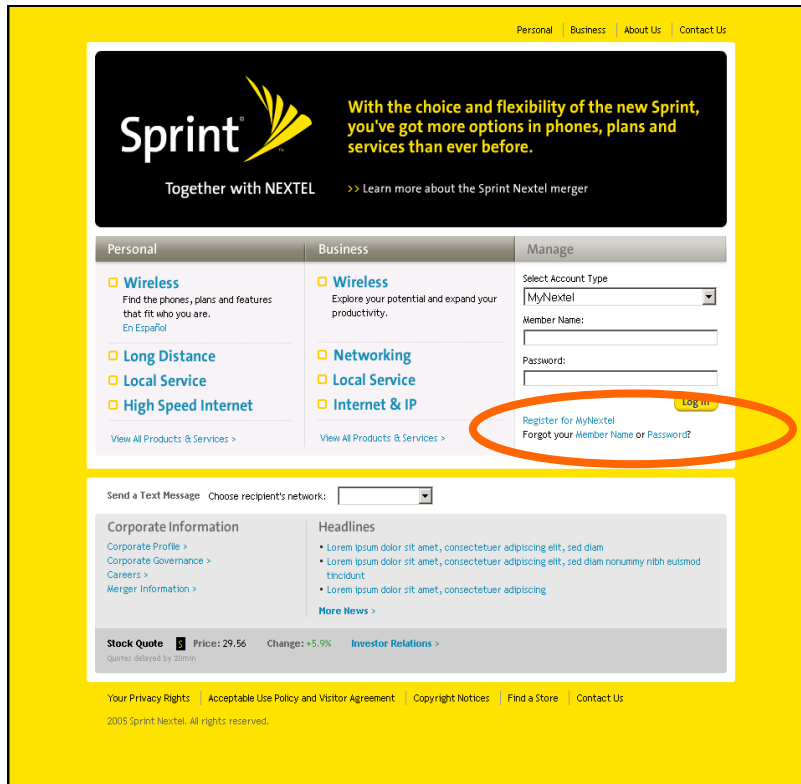

If however, your permanent number is invalid, your temporary number will be registered and displayed as your number of record.
